Butler

Board finds Butler guilty; he's placed on probation

by Madeleine Doubek

Former Student Body President Joe Butler was found guilty Wednesday of property destruction and behavioral misconduct and will be placed on university disciplinary probation.

A 10-member judicial board, composed of three students and seven faculty members, found Butler and Student Senator Matt Geber guilty of charges stemming from their conduct and $25 in damages at a student senate leadership retreat in Terre Haute, Ind.

Jeffrey Lynch, English instructor and judicial board member, said the probation sanction was a unified decision by board members. The board's vote is kept confidential.

Unless they choose to appeal the decision, Butler and Geber will be placed on probation next week. As stated in the Student Conduct Code, such a sanction is "a status imposed for behavior of such nature as to place the student near removal from the university community. It requires that the student demonstrate for a specific period of time that he/she is capable of conformance to university standards of conduct."

Butler will be on probation until he graduates with a degree in philosophy in May, while Geber will be on probation until the fall semester. Neither will be allowed to participate in student government or any university-sponsored clubs or boards.

"I thought it was fair," Butler said from the Uptowner/Cellar seconds after receiving the verdict via phone from Judicial Affairs Officer Keith Kohanzo, "but I don't agree with the decision." Late Wednesday night, Butler said he thought he was put on probation so that he could no longer participate in student government, adding the penalty is the "stiffest besides kicking me out."

It was also learned during the two and one-half hour hearing that Joe Cassidy, student activities administrative assistant, was "reprimanded for ... unprofessionalism" at the retreat.

Cassidy and Anita Craig, student activities director, were responsible for filing the disciplinary charges against Butler and Geber. Both advisers were questioned extensively by board members about the purpose of senate retreats and the monitoring of students

Executive vice president position remains vacant

by Lori Edwards

Student Body President Angelynn Richardson did not make any appointment to the vacant office of executive vice president at the Student Senate meeting Wednesday.

Richardson said she did not know when or if an appointment would be made before the special election for the position which will be held February 14.

"I'd have less headaches if I did it myself," Richardson said after the meeting, adding that it would take time to train someone and she might continue to do both jobs.

However, at the Student Senate meeting Richardson said she would wait until the next meeting to appoint someone, as she only had two qualified people to choose from.

Eastern President Stanley Rives, who as a guest speaker joked he was before a group that "impeaches presidents," addressed the senate.

He mentioned ways for the senate to become involved in the university, including meetings with administrators, feedback from students and communication with Aaron Shepley, student representative to the Board of Governors.

Rives, Richardson and Senate Speaker Ron Wesel plan to start having monthly meetings, Rives said.

He also said the senate could consider a feedback mechanism, such as a survey, to determine how to best reflect student's attitudes.

In addition, he said it was imperative for students to make sure Shepley knew where the senators were "coming from," and commended Shepley for representing the students "very well."

Rives also gave the senate information and answered questions on several topics, including a proposed 5 percent tuition hike.

Of the tuition hike, Rives said he is expecting "a rather vigorous debate when this comes before our board" and he didn't "know what will happen."

In other business, the senate approved:

- a $16,560 budget request for next year to go before the Apportionment Board for approval. Last year the senate received $14,816 of their requests.

- five transfers of money from one account to another for University Board, Mainstage and productions.

- twelve students to serve on student-faculty boards.

In addition, sophomore Joseph O'Mera raised a question during the student participation portion of the meeting on why senators do not call students to gain a better awareness of students.

He added that many students find they are ineligible to enter the school of business because they do not know what requirements they needed. O'Mera suggested that the senate call students for input.

Wesel said the Affirmative Action committee, which some senate members serve on, is presently investigating complaints from students concerning requirements.

Greeks favor higher GPAs or imposing social probation

by Julie Zook

Following a resolution passed earlier this week requiring sororities to have higher grade point averages, fraternities may follow suit if their governing body approves a similar measure Thursday.

The Interfraternity Council is set to vote on a proposal which would require that each fraternity maintain at least a 2.5 GPA or suffer social probation.

According to Assistant Student Activities Director Ed Zimmerman, the higher GPA standards are needed. "The active members need to be more concerned about the GPAs," Zimmerman said, adding that the standards don't apply to individual members but to each chapter as a whole.

Fraternities currently maintain the university requirement of a 2.0.

"If fraternities didn't have selective membership, they'd let anyone off the streets join. That's what we do," Zimmerman said. "That's the difference between fraternities and clubs.

"A lot of fraternities take kids who want to be greek, and it's been figured that each chapter spends about $200 on each pledge," she added. "If the pledge leaves, who's the loser? The fraternities are, as well as the individual."

Steve Sims, IFC representative for Sigma Pi fraternity, 956 Sixth St., said the change in policy was needed for several reasons.

"Due to the decline in our greeks' GPAs, a new policy was needed," Sims said. "It was needed because we (the fraternities) claim we have high GPAs, and we don't."

Under the new policy, students need a 2.0 GPA to pledge a fraternity or to become active. If a pledge has not acquired a GPA while at Eastern, as in the case of first-semester freshmen, he must prove that he does not have two or more D's or F's in his pledge semester.

Zimmerman said students can prove their grades by having instructors submit a slip of paper stating the student's grade is acceptable.

Sigma Chi fraternity, 1617 9th St., had already begun work on a chapter grade policy, according to Sigma Chi President Tony Sarallo.

"We had gone ahead on our own," he said. "The policy pertained to pledges and for initiates and we combined ours with the IFC policy."

Sigma Chi fraternity's current chapter GPA is 2.54 for actives, Sarallo said.

"We always made an effort to keep track of grades but it's better to have a guideline in the bylaws of the chapter," he said.

Under the policy approved at Tuesday's Panhellenic Council meeting, sororities are required to maintain a 2.7 GPA or face the same probation fraternities could face.

OPEC agrees to lower oil prices

GENEVA, Switzerland—A divided OPEC agreed Wednesday to lower some of its prices by as much as $1.41 a barrel, a move that followed the lead of its competitors and marked only the second round of cuts in the cartel's 25-year history.

Analysts said consumers, who have enjoyed savings from earlier price cuts by such OPEC competitors as Britain, Norway, Canada and U.S. oil companies, should not expect additional savings at the gas pump soon. But they said they expected prices to continue to drift lower in the months and years ahead.

The turbulent three-day special meeting ended with a new split in the ranks of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, as four of the cartel's 13 members rejected the deal and said they would go their own way on prices. Algeria, Iran and Libya, which had resisted cuts in OPEC's high-priced oils, dissented from the decision, while Gabon abstained.

That split "is not a recipe for stability" in oil markets, said Daniel Yergin, president of Cambridge Energy Research Associates, a private consulting firm in Cambridge, Mass.

The net effect of Wednesday's modest cuts would be a 29-cent drop in the average OPEC price, to $27.96 a barrel, Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said.

Caterpillar to trim more jobs as operations move abroad

PEORIA (AP)—As many as 1,400 workers could lose their jobs over a two- to three-year period after Caterpillar Tractor Co., fulfilling intentions unveiled last year, announced Wednesday it will trim production at two large plants in Illinois and Iowa.

The world's largest maker of heavy-construction machinery, plagued by losses of nearly $1 billion over the past three years, said it told workers Tuesday at its Mapleton and Davenport, Iowa facilities of its decision to "downsize" operations.

Caterpillar had said Nov. 29 that it was contemplating the changes at the Mapleton foundry and the Davenport assembly plant because the factories were underutilized and low-cost sources of materials could be found elsewhere.

Operations at the Mapleton foundry will be consolidated from two buildings into a single one, the company said.

"Depending on business conditions, Mapleton plant employment could be reduced by about 835 people over the next two or three years," Caterpillar said in a statement.

Currently, there are 1,841 people working the Mapleton facility, said Caterpillar spokesman Steve Newhouse.

He said 1,525 of them are hourly blue-collar workers and 316 are white-collar employees on salaries. Of those who could lose their jobs, Newhouse said 700 would be hourly employees and 135 salaried workers.

Assembly at the Davenport plant of track-loaders will be moved this year to Caterpillar plant in Grenoble, France, the company said. Caterpillar said a tractor it previously planned to build at Davenport now will be made beginning in 1986 at a Caterpillar factory in Glasgow, Scotland.

"These European plants make the same products produced at Davenport but at a substantially lower cost," Caterpillar said.

The company late last year announced the layoffs of more than 3,100 U.S. workers, most at Illinois and Iowa plants. It said the changes at the Davenport factory could reduce the workforce there—now 1,665—by about 600 over the next two years.

Coles County competing to land GM Saturn project

by Paul Bauer

A committee of Coles County residents is working to encourage General Motors to construct its proposed Saturn automobile plant in the Coles County area.

Charleston Mayor Clancy Pfeiffer, one of the area officials involved in the attempt to draw the plant to this area, said the plant will bring a total of about 20,000 new jobs.

"The plant will require 6,000 employees to run it," Pfeiffer said, adding that another 14,000 jobs will result from a "spinoff effect" on Charleston's economy.

GM has already indicated that the site of the new plant may be somewhere in Illinois.

The committee will never actually meet with GM executives. "The proposal will be sent to Springfield, where Michael Woelffer, head of economic development in Illinois, will present all the proposed sites in Illinois to GM," Pfeiffer said.

"We (the Charleson area) have the status of life a company like GM would like," Pfeiffer said. "It's a low crime area with good potential to raise a family."

City Administrator Mike Steele said GM will make a decision on the plant location within the next 90 days.

Illinois is not alone in contention for the location of the plant. At least eight other midwestern states are being considered by GM. However, Steele said he believes the central Illinois area is best adapted for the plant.

"Between 400 and 600 acres are needed for the construction of the plant," Martin Owens, Charleston chamber of commerce director, said.

Owens also said the plant will require easy access to interstates and railroads.

Because of the technical nature of the jobs the plant will offer, Steele said, GM needs "access to education." Eastern has the capability to train employees in "high-tech" fields.

Pay hike constitutionality being contested by group

by Kevin McDermott

Even as Illinois legislators begin enjoying a salary increase, the method by which that increase was approved is still awaiting judgment in a Cook County Circuit Court.

The Coalition for Political Honesty is challenging the constitutionality of a pay hike which went into effect Thursday.

Coalition member Patrick Quinn said Wednesday that the pay raise—which includes a 16 percent increase for all state representatives and first-term state senators—was recommended by the Compensation Review Board.

The coalition, which is based in Oak Park, is challenging the system by which the raise was approved. Under General Assembly process, the review board makes a recommendation to the General Assembly, and unless both houses vote it down, it goes into effect.

"They (the Compensation Review Board) recommended $8 million in pay raises, which automatically went into effect as long as both houses of the legislature didn't veto it," Quinn said.

Cook County Circuit Judge David Shields will hear the arguments on the constitutionality of the hikes March 8.

The coalition is challenging the method used to approve the pay hikes on the grounds that it is unconstitutional, Quinn said. The attorney general's office is arguing the state's side.

Al Manning, a spokesman for the attorney general's office, said Wednesday that "the entire process is being challenged," but would not speculate on what the ultimate ruling in the lawsuit would be.

In a hearing Monday, Shields refused a request by the coalition that a temporary restraining order be put on the pay hike because of the lawsuit which is still in progress.

Shields said that, because no special appropriations had to be passed yet by the legislature to fund the pay hikes, there was no need to block them.

Eastern political science instructor Joe Connelly said Wednesday that he believes state officials and legislators deserve a pay hike, but had "mixed feelings" about the way they got it.

"It's one of those gray areas," Connelly said. "I think the pay increases were merited, (but) they're ducking the issue a little. It's going to make voters very unhappy."

Rather than giving the Compensation Review Board the power to initiate a pay raise with only passive approval from the General Assembly, Connelly said legislators should have "hammered it out themselves and taken the heat."

John Faust, also an Eastern political science instructor, agreed. Although Faust said the pay raises are necessary, he added that the use of the Compensation Review Board to get those hikes was "unlawful."

"The legislature has a responsibility to the voter to approve their own pay hike," Faust said. "It doesn't have the right to delegate its responsibility like that."

Quinn said the General Assembly will have to pass a budget appropriation to pay for the increases by June 30, or it will run out of money to pay for the increases.

"They're taking more money out of the piggy bank, but they only have the same amount in the piggy bank they had last year," Quinn said.

State Senator Max Coffey, R-Charleston, said Wednesday he co-sponsored a bill to block the recommended pay raises. The bill failed in the senate, but later passed in the house.

However, because the blockage bill did not pass both houses, the review board's salary increase recommendations automatically went into effect.

Coffey added that he would "probably" vote against a budget appropriation to fund the increases when it comes before the senate.

State Rep. Harry Woodyard, R-Chrisman, said Wednesday he also voted against the review board's recommendations, and would vote against the appropriation.

Woodyard added that he is currently working on a proposal to cut legislator's salaries in half and making the General Assembly a "part-time" job. He noted that Kentucky, Indiana, Missouri and several other Midwestern states already run on part time legislatures.

High school's SADD chapter commendable

Charleston High School has taken a role in a worthwhile crusade.

In an attempt to help prevent unnecessary deaths, CHS has organized a chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD).

We believe this organization will provide the type of instruction and support regarding drinking and driving needed at the high school level and throughout the community.

One of the goals of the group will be "to stop the macho image of 'it's cool to drink and drive,'" one of the CHS chapter's faculty advisers, Bill Monken, said.

This is a most valuable concept considering the astonishingly high rate of alcoholic-related teenage deaths on the highway.

And if a recent student-conducted survey performed at the school is correct, the "macho" image attached to drinking in general may need some cooling at CHS.

The survey showed that 63 percent of the CHS senior class has used alcohol, while 23 percent stated that they had used drugs.

Who knows what percentage of these individuals have hopped into a car and taken the risk of becoming a statistic in a alcohol-related death toll rather than a survey on drugs and drinking.

Fortunately, the SADD chapter at CHS has decided to bring its message to the community. One of its ventures will be to educate grade school students on the hazards of drinking and drugs before they reach the age of easy access.

Members of SADD also plan to help teach parents a few lessons on handling teenage drinking in the family through the "contract for life."

Under this contract, parents promise to provide a ride for their children if they call from a party when they have had too much drink. No questions can be asked until the next morning. This will provide everyone with the opportunity to take a more sober approach to the discussion.

We commend CHS for its attempts to educate its students and the community on the issue of drunk driving. It can only be hoped that teenagers, children and adults will heed their SADD cry.

Your turn

Consider integrity

Editor:

I read with interest The Daily Eastern News articles about former student body president Joe Butler. Of particular interest was the survey by Michael J. Cuyjet, director of programming and activities at Northern Illinois University. Butler obviously suspected how worthwhile the questionnaire was when he received it a month after it was due to be returned to the director of the research project.

Cuyjet certainly proved his integrity and the validity of his project. First, in the beginning paragraphs of the questionnaire, were the words: "NO INDIVIDUALS WILL BE IDENTIFIED." So, what does Cuyjet do, but call his friend Bill Clark at Eastern to discuss Butler's responses to the questionnaire? Then Cuyjet writes Clark a letter and encloses a copy of the questionnaire. So much for confidential information.

As if Cuyjet didn't break enough rules concerning questionnaires and confidential information, he had to go one step further by throwing out Butler's response because the answers made him angry. It makes me wonder how many other project statistics he may have "altered" because he didn't like the answers.

I do not know Butler, nor do I know if he has served the students well as president of the student body. However, from reading articles in the Daily Eastern News, it seems as though the student senators who work with Butler have very subjective opinions and too much power. I hope the adults and advisers connected with this situation will carefully consider only valid and objective evidence.

Only victims of prejudice feel its sting

Prejudice is a word of common misunderstanding. Though many purport its meaning, few understand it. Few realize its power and its force. And fewer feel its sting. Only when you become the victim of discrimination do you begin to understand what prejudice really is.

My dictionary defines prejudice as: "an unfavorable opinion formed beforehand or without knowledge." From this definition, two words suggest where prejudicial attitudes originate. They are formed "without knowledge." Ignorance is the parent of discrimination. Through ignorance, unnecessary pain and suffering are born.

We are all guilty of prejudice. To favor certain values or opinions makes us prejudiced. By injecting faith into our beliefs, we tend to disregard other beliefs and values. And some individuals, clinging too strongly to their opinions, ultimately reject the rights of others to express their own opinions.

But not everyone is guilty of discrimination. Only those who fear what they don't know discriminate against others, concealing their ignorance behind a mask of fallacious and often vicious biases. Not only are these biases unfair, but most often, they are ungrounded. As the dictionary states, most prejudicial attitudes, statements and actions are formed "without knowledge."

Crossview:

Recently, several close friends and I felt the sting of discrimination. I've come to know what prejudice is. When it happens to you, it goes beyond the limits of ethnic, sexual or religious values. When it happens to you, it becomes a matter of human values.

After becoming the target of discriminatory statements and actions, I began to question my own judgments and values. Then, after much consideration, I began to challenge the accusations that led me to this trial of values. And then I realized the inaccurate reasoning of their opinion and was reassured. Their ignorance only substantiates my values and beliefs.

CAA to vote on new course

The Council on Academic Affairs Thursday will vote on a new honors course proposal from the geology department.

"Weather and Climate for Honors Students," ESC 1490, is a four-semester-hour course that will introduce the student to the study of the atmosphere and its processes.

The course will also include atmospheric structure and composition, weather elements, climatic change and interactions between man and the atmosphere.

The CAA will meet at 2 p.m. in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

$150,000 scholarship

Financial aid available for Jewish

by Rudy Schelly

Jewish men and women who are, or intend to be, permanent residents of the Chicago metropolitan area may be eligible for a $150,000 scholarship to help pay for their college education from the Jewish Federation of Metropolitan Chicago.

Loann Sontag, JFMC scholarship secretary, said Jewish students who are in need of financial aid for a full time academic program, may qualify for the award.

The award, which has been presented since 1959, is available "for students who are identified as having promise for significant contributions in their chosen career," she said.

The $150,000 monetary award, the largest scholarship sponsored by the JFMC, is made available by an estate fund called the Levie Educational Fund, she added.

"The Levie Fund is primarily for graduate students in the helping professions," Sontag added.

John Flynn, Eastern's financial aid director, said students interested in applying may pick up an application at the Financial Aid Office, located in the Student Services Building, and return it before March 1.

Panhellenic Council, said her sorority favored the policy.

Wade, whose chapter's GPA is 2.8, said the resolution "passed unanimously. I think it opened the eyes of Greeks. We have to have good grades, too."

However, Babette Trautman, activities director for Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, 509 Lincoln, said, "We don't agree with (the policy)," she said, "but it's just going to make it really tough."

Alpha Phi sorority, 1816 9th St., had last fall's highest chapter GPA at 2.96, and Pledge Trainer Carolee Riba said the sorority supports the Panhellenic policy. "We're here for grades," she said.

Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority, 1616 9th St., is against the 2.7 required GPA, said President Kirsten Werner. "A 2.7 seemed a little high," she said. "Why not make it 2.5 (like the guys)?"

Werner would not say what chapter GPA was, only that "it was below 2.7."

Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, 1532 4th St., had an "overwhelming feeling of support for" the new IFC policy," said Treasurer Chris Lindauer.

Craig said she and Union Area Head Bill Clark reprimanded Cassidy "in regards to the alcohol situation at the conference." She said Cassidy received "written and verbal conference, both."

Clark refused to comment on the reprimand, saying Craig's comments were "sufficient."

During the hearing, Cassidy testified that he had bought a case of beer in Terre Haute to bring to a Super Bowl party when he returned to Charleston. However, after they were stranded in Terre Haute Sunday due to the weather, Cassidy said he placed most of the case of beer on a counter in a room of eight to 10 senators and "said they could have some since I didn't know who was underage."

Lynch asked if he could conclude that there was considerable underage drinking during the retreat that Cassidy knew about. Cassidy answered yes and said, "My personal feeling is with college students those who want it, will drink."

Kohanzo told the board that disciplinary action is being investigated for others at the retreat. After the hearing he said any hearings for other student government officials would probably be kept confidential. Most disciplinary actions are confidential to protect the privacy of the student.

Kohanzo added that, "It is likely that an underaged senator would be given a university reprimand in the absence of anything aggravating" because that is the normal sanction for any student.

During the hearing, Butler and Geber told the board that they did damage their room at the Ramada Inn by drawing on a lamp shade with a marker, using electrical tape to make symbols on the walls, and squirting toothpaste on the bathroom mirror.

They also admitted to breaking a door chain after they had been locked out of their room by other senators. However, Butler noted that these actions were not vandalism. He said he consulted Webster's dictionary and found vandalism defined as "willful destruction to works of art or literature. As far as I could see, there were no works of art in my room."

Geber said he spoke to Ramada Inn Manager Tim Kimmel Tuesday, apologized and asked to pay for all damage to the room. Geber said he was told damages amounted to $25.70 and he said he sent a check to Ramada Tuesday afternoon.

A letter from Kimmel was circulated at the hearing by Anita Craig. The letter said he "found their room to be a complete disaster. These students had to work at it to cause such destruction." The letter listed damages caused to the room and said a maid had to be paid $25.13 for eight hours of cleaning.

Craig and Cassidy claimed the hotel had absorbed any charges for damages and only wanted reimbursement for cleaning.

Lynch said the board considered only the university reprimand and probation as possible sanctions for Butler and Geber. "The reprimand is totally meaningless. It's (what you get) for throwing lettuce in someone's face." He added that suspending or expelling Butler was out of the question.

Road-troubled cagers hoping to trump hosting Aces

by Ken Dickson

Eastern's men's basketball team finishes up a three-game road trip Thursday as it travels to the University of Evansville.

The Panthers have had the "close, but no cigar" syndrome in many of their road games this season. Away from the friendly confines of Lantz Gym, Eastern is 2-6.

In the past 11 games, Eastern—8-6 overall and 3-1 in the Association of Mid-Continent Universities' conference—is 7-4. Two of the team's last four losses were in overtime and the other two by one point each in regulation.

"It's an important game for us," Eastern coach Rick Samuels said. "We'd like to get a couple wins on the road. So far, we've not had much success in that area, as far as, wins and losses go. But, we've played everybody pretty tough."

Evansville, located in southern Indiana, is 10-8 overall and 2-5 in the Midwestern City conference and faced with similar results.

The Purple Aces, 8-1 at home and 2-7 on the road, are coming off a pretty rough road trip. In the past two weeks, Evansville has lost three conference games, including contests at Loyola (94-89), Detroit (74-65) and St. Louis (73-69).

But in their 11,104-seat Roberts Stadium, the Purple Aces have averaged over 6,500 fans and have beaten Indiana State (72-71), Nebraska (80-73) and Xavier (77-71) among others. Butler University, which scored an 80-68 win, is the only team to beat Evansville at home this season.

The Aces return three starters from last year's 15-14 team, but one of the starters has since lost his job.

Paul Schaefer, a 6-foot-8 junior from Edwardsville, Ill., who averaged 6.2 points per game last season, has played in every game this season, but has started only three.

Richie Johnson, who has started at every position, is averaging 14.1 ppg and 8.3 rebounds. The 6-9 senior, who grabbed 21 rebounds against Western Kentucky earlier this season, has made several All-American teams.

Johnson's cousin, Bobby Mukes, is also making his mark on the team. The 6-7 junior forward is leading the team in scoring with 16.8 ppg and is rebounding at a pace of four per game.

Two other starters include Joe McAdoo, a 6-7 forward who is averaging 8.6 points and 7.1 rebounds; and Tyrone Scott, a 6-1 guard who is averaging 7.8 points and 4.4 assists.

The other guard position has been handled by junior Mike Massing, who started the team's last game, and two freshmen—Michael Bradley and Curtis Jackson.

"They have one of the quickest front courts that we'll play," Samuels said. "Johnson at 6-9 can put the ball on the floor and do a lot of things. He's their key. They're not as physical as some of the teams we've played, but they are quick."

Samuels said Kevin Duckworth, averaging 13.3 points and 6.7 rebounds per game; Dirk Androff, averaging 10.9 points and 4.8 rebounds; Jon Collins, averaging 16.8 points and 5.1 rebounds; and Doug Crook and Troy Richardson, averaging 11.5 and 8.8 points, respectively, will start for Eastern.

The game will be broadcast on WLBH-FM (97) radio beginning at 7:20 p.m. Charleston time.

•Androff moved into first place in the AMCU's field goal percentage category. The 6-7 forward is making 63.1 percent (60-for-95) of his shots from the field.

•Richardson still leads the AMCU in assists with a 6.2 average and steals at a 2.9 pace.

•In other areas, Duckworth is tied for first in blocked shots at 1.4 and tenth in scoring, while Collins is fifth in scoring.

Olympian Alford rejoins Knight, Hoosiers squad

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Steve Alford is back in Indiana university's starting lineup, but he will be joined by three freshmen as Coach Bobby Knight sticks with his controversial youth movement.

Knight, who used only six freshmen and senior center Uwe Blab in Sunday's 52-41 Big Ten loss to Illinois, reinstated Alford as a probable starter for Thursday's game against Iowa—the Hoosiers' first at home since losing three straight games on the road.

Alford, a sophomore guard who was a member of Knight's gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic team last summer, is the Hoosiers' leading scorer with a 19.5-point average.

The rest of Knight's lineup, released by the school's sports information office, includes Blab; freshmen forward Kreigh Smith, who will be making his first start and is averaging 1.2 points a game; forward Steve Eyl, who has started only twice this season and is averaging 3.1 points; and guard Delray Brooks, a starter in five previous games with a 3.9 average.

Blab is averaging 15.6 points a game.

Winston Morgan, the other player not allowed to make the Illinois trip, practiced Tuesday and is expected to be in uniform against Iowa. Morgan, a starter in nine games, has not played since Jan. 19, when Indiana lost at Ohio State.

Knight, 11-6 overall in his 14th season with Indiana and 3-4 in Big Ten play, has used 11 different starting units this season.

Bulls drop big game to Bullets despite 38 points from Jordan

LANDOVER, Md. (AP)—Jeff Malone and Greg Ballard each scored a half dozen points in a 12-2 fourth-quarter Washington scoring spree that helped the Bullets come from behind to record a 106-95 National Basketball Association victory over Chicago Wednesday night.

The Bulls, who had a four-game winning streak snapped, got 38 points from Michael Jordan, including 24 in the first half when Chicago led by as many as 13.

After a basket by Chicago's Quintin Dailey upped the Bulls' lead to four points, Malone scored six straight points to give Washington the lead for good. Ballard added three baskets around a Jordan dunk to give Washington a 91-85 lead, and the Bulls never cut the advantage below four points the rest of the way.

Wrestlers beat Indiana 25-20

by Mike Nelson and Bill Maher

Steady performances and home crowd support Wednesday helped Eastern's grapplers defeat Indiana 25-20.

Eastern's wins in six of ten weight classes vaulted them to victory over the Big Ten school. "All of our guys wrestled well tonight," Eastern head coach Ralph McCausland said. "There were a lot of good matches."

In spite of a shoulder injury, Pat Flynn (126) started off the Panther scoring with a 10-9 victory. Flynn's victory brought the team score to 3-3.

In the 134-pound class, Mark Ruettiger came on strong to shut out his opponent 8-0. Ruettiger's win upped Eastern's lead to 7-3.

After a loss in the 142-pound class, Chris Simcox (150) came from a 9-7 deficit to defeat his opponent 14-11. "The guy Simcox wrestled was tough, he placed second in the Redskin Open last weekend," McCausland said.

Chris McFarland (158) overpowered his opponent throughout the match. The second period proved to be the only slow action of the match. He came on strong in the third period to score on four take-downs on his way to a 20-7 victory.

Ozzie Porter (167) followed in McFarland's foot steps by defeating his opponent 16-5 with a series of take-downs. His victory put the meet out of reach for Indiana as Eastern took a 19-8 lead.

Jeff Cummings' forfeit win in the 177-pound class widened Eastern's lead to 25-8. Indiana wins in the final two matches brought the final score to 25-20.

"In the matches we lost the scores didn't reflect our performances. We wrestled well but didn't capitalize on many opportunities," McCausland said. "Overall, the key to our victory was our steady performance throughout the night."

Hilke: Defense key against Wichita State

by Dan Verdun

Eastern women's basketball coach Barbara Hilke won't be as concerned with Wichita State as she is with her own team when the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference foes clash Thursday at Wichita, Kan.

"We have to take care of business at the defensive end," Hilke said. "We worked on our post-player defense in practice. We've been getting beat inside."

Eastern, 10-7 overall and 2-5 in the GCAC, is coming off a devastating 78-46 loss to Southern Illinois. The Panthers had won two straight prior to the demolition at Carbondale.

"We made way too many mental mistakes against Southern last week and we can't do that again," Hilke said.

Hilke also hopes to improve things offensively for the Panthers, who shot just 35.1 percent from the field against Southern.

"We need our zone-busters (perimeter shooters) to take a step in on their shots," Hilke said.

Eastern, which will travel to Southwest Missouri State Saturday for the second half of its westward swing, has received consistent play from junior Chris Aldridge lately.

Aldridge, a 5-foot-10 forward, is averaging 15 points and 8.3 rebounds in GCAC action. Overall, she is scoring at a 14.1 clip and hauling down 7.1 rebounds.

Senior Toni Collins leads the Panthers with a 15.6 points-per-game average. She also averages 7.4 boards.

Melanie Hatfield ranks third on the team in scoring with a 12.1 average. The Lawrenceburg, Ind., product leads the Panthers in steals with 43.

Junior point guard Kim Maxey is among the conference leaders in assists with 76.

Wichita State, 6-11 overall and 2-5 in the GCAC, is led by guard Allison Daniel. The junior is averaging 18.2 points and 7.4 rebounds per game.

Junior forward Jenny Parr scores at a 13.5 clip. Center Terria Dawson leads the Shockers in rebounding with an 8.7 mark.

"It is time for the players on the team to suck it up and play good hard-nosed basketball like they are capable of," Hilke said. "The true character of this team must come through on this road-trip."

"I'm confident that if we play aggressive, fundamentally-sound basketball—like we are capable of—we can have a great shot at coming back from the trip with a 2-0 mark."

R.C. side-steps as ISU post looms within his grasp

Now, more than ever, R.C. Johnson is cautious of his actions. And rightly so.

For each step he takes toward being named athletic director at Illinois State University, the more he is looking over his shoulder.

"If anything, I'm trying to work harder at Eastern now than ever before," said Johnson, who continues to downplay his ISU venture. "Consciously, I know I'm doing more."

But it's funny how many lines are overused from such athletic director searches. But that's where Johnson's public relations come to a screeching halt.

R.C. be honest. The other three finalists, though also content with their jobs, admit Illinois State isn't a bad step no matter what they're offered.

Why not confess your intentions?

"I'm like R.C., that I'm comfortable at this level," finalist David Coffey, athletic director at Tennessee Tech, said Tuesday. "But I feel it's a definite step up."

Perhaps, it's Johnson's best opportunity to become a noted success with a major Division I institution. Illinois State, a Missouri Valley Conference member, seems fitting.

But Johnson has also discussed his desire to eventually challenge for work inside the Big Ten community.

"If I had my choice I'd be in the Big Ten," he said. "I love the Midwest, and I would like to be at the upper level."

So, it appears the possibility of landing the Illinois State position, in approximately two weeks, could be the springboard Johnson needs.

"He's not just testing the waters," Eastern NCAA Representative Jimmie Franklin said Wednesday. "No, he's deadly serious about this job."

"I think he's looking for something that will provide a challenge. I would be very surprised if the (ISU) don't make him an offer."

Eastern is never going to get bigger, and Johnson's successes may need a test of the major Division I market.

Although both schools bookend the University of Illinois, Illinois State athletics have touched levels of NCAA excellence Eastern probably never will.

Illinois State, which approved an $11 million sports complex slated for 1987, has pledged its intent to move into the upper echelon of Division I athletics.

In the school's largest student referendum, Illinois State students welcomed 1985-86 athletic fees of $70 to help finance the complex.

But Johnson also pulled off a shocker, when he provoked Eastern students to pay $82 each in the next year, the highest in the state, to aid athletic costs.

"No one likes to be shot at, and I realize that everyone like me," Johnson said. "Naturally, it bothers you, but many times the big projects are controversial."

"It's still my job to be the leader," he added. "I also think it helps to be a little thick-skinned."

Consequently, Illinois State officials applied Johnson's manipulations. A $250,000 Panther fund drive was proportionately equal to ISU's $400,000 effort.

The Illinois State job could be a gold mine to Johnson's career. But should he not get an offer, he is making sure he doesn't anger any more natives here.

In his first attempt to leave Eastern after 10 years, he understands the ramifications of pointing his nose elsewhere.

"Maybe they (his Eastern co-workers) are praying like hell that I get up and go," he said. "But I'm really so naïve to think that."
